Shrimp-in-a-blanket

Jumbo shrimp and a small pinch of black pepper rolled up, by hand, in a spring roll wrapper. Fried for 7 minutes to ensure cooked and crunchy. The juicy and seafood texture seems to be adored.

Thai Fried Rice, choose your protein

Jasmine rice begins the dish by frying it in a pan when all its ingredients are added quickly for a smoothly fused dish. The sauce used is a generationally crafted favorite and blast of flavor.

Thai Tea (spoken, Chi Yen)

Tea leaves from the Massan valley create the core of this cold, creamy, and stout beverage. Specially brewed with added creamer to take the tea's edge off and create a silky smooth taste. Nothing compares to it except it's green relative.

Imagine walking through a village in tropical Thailand or taking a stroll along the beach on the skirts of Thailand. You are soaking up parts of unseen Thailand. Suddenly you get hungry and thirsty. In the United States, locally, Killeen, Texas, you can come see Thai Law and serve your appetite which may please the same urges. Our goal is to be as authentic as possible and give you the same pleasure.

Owner's note

"Everything is authentic and made authentic. The origin of this food is Central Thailand and will remain as it is made in Central Thailand. The difference between here and there is, coal is not used to cook with and dollars are used in place of Thai Baht."

Thai Eats to go

Often, customers come to us to order and can't decide what to choose. My answer is always to start with one realization. Are you looking for something, sweet, salty, or slightly bitter, maybe all three at once? That decision denotes the sauces spice those are the base of every dish.

From there you can decide further about rice, noodles, broth, etc.

Spice level. That is a topic which is very touchy. Although Thailand is big and notorious about their spice level. Truthfully, they have two levels, spicy and not spicy. However, Thai Law offered four. No spice, mild spicy, medium spicy, and Thai spicy. You may notice each level pertains to your specific tolerance level. Mild has been removed due to it can't always be matched to the customer.

Ingredients are sourced from various places. Unless the desired place is into importing and exporting, the exact ingredient is difficult to obtain. Care and precision are used when preparing the cuisine with the sometimes rare ingredients. This speaks broadly to the pride in the dish. Each dish is designed for a particular situation and taste.

Please remember all content herin is of Thai Law and does not imply or impose others' opinions unless it is expressed. Other food vendors in the same location have other offerings as well as in the city. These thoughts and expressions are Thai Law's.
